Critical Concepts & Strategies (CCS Test Prep) – Instructors

Dr. David A. Paprota, Ed.D.
Chief of Police

Dr. David A. Paprota is recognized as the foremost authority in entry-level exam preparation in the State of New Jersey. He has the distinction of having trained over 15,000 law enforcement candidates and incumbents for their respective civil service exams over the past 24 years. Dr. Paprota possesses not only the formal educational credentials but also the experience beyond anyone else currently in the field. His educational research has centered on three-factor psychometric testing, which is the type of examination administered for the New Jersey Entry-Level Law Enforcement Exam (LEE). Dr. Paprota has served as an adjunct professor at Seton Hall University; developed a graduate-level course currently utilized as part of the curriculum for a Master's of Arts degree at Seton Hall University; and currently serves as a decorated Chief of Police in New Jersey. Candidates who strive to achieve the highest score possible on their examination have been seeking out and traveling to Dr. David Paprota for over two decades.

The New Jersey Civil Service Commission (NJ CSC) utilizes the most contemporary and competitive examination available for the LEE. This is the exact form of examination that has served as the foundation for much of Dr. Paprota's research over the past 15 years.
